SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

The Searle-O'Connor Race on Monday—General Notes.

Interest in the Searle-O'Connor single scull race for the championship of the world, to be decided on Monday, is the main topic in sporting circles. In this city Searle is the favorite at 4 to 3, with few takers. In England there is an evident movement in favor of the Canadian, but as the friends of the latter refuse to open their purse-strings, the betting is nil. It is pretty apparent, however, that the Antipodeans are not quite so confident as they were. THE TIMES will announce the winner and particulars of the race in Monday evening's issue.

BASEBALLERS COMING.

The Marysville baseball club, champions of Montana, have left home on a tour of the coast, playing at Spokane Falls, Seattle, Port Townsend and Victoria. Hence the tourists will go south to California via Portland. The party will comprise thirteen young men, all employed in excavating rich gold ore in the slopes and tunnels of the famous Drum Lummon mine, the richest in the world outside of Alaska. R. T. Bayliss, resident director of the mine, takes a great interest in the game and gives substantial encouragement to the club.

JACK DEMPSEY IN PORTLAND.

Jack Dempsey, the heretofore invincible middleweight champion pugilist, has arrived in Portland overland from San Francisco. His shiner bears marks of his recent terrible battle with the Marine. The swelling of his nose has nearly subsided. He is in good spirits and fine condition, and expresses a very strong desire to have another chance with La Blanche, and says that is the height of his ambition. He has every confidence that he will be able to retrieve his fallen laurels. He will remain about two weeks and then return to San Francisco.

THE KAMLOOPS TEAM.

A private letter from Kamloops, received last night, states that the Kamloops baseball club have secured a new pitcher by the name of Rem. He is said to be six feet in height and delivers the ball as if it were shot from a cannon. What is the matter with Marsh?

CRICKET.

The last regular game of the season was played this afternoon at Beacon Hill between a team from the fleet and the Victoria cricket club.

SULLIVAN REDIVIVUS.

New York, Sept. 7.—John L. Sullivan arrived here this morning and will appear at Madison Square Garden this evening. He was accompanied by his father and brother.

THE TEAM FOR KAMLOOPS.

The baseball boys and their friends will leave for Kamloops to-morrow morning. With fair luck they may be expected to give a good account of themselves on Tuesday and following days. The team will be composed of Duck, Burner, Jackson, N. Gowen, Gus Gowen, Turnbull, T. Parritt, Borthwick, Parritt. The professionals will have to hustle to beat them.

MONDAY'S RACE

Before another issue of THE TIMES the great sculling championship for which the two great colonies are still contending will be decided. If the files keep off the wire the result will appear on Monday evening.

HALIFAX GRAVING DOCK.

The Largest on the Eastern Coast—Its Dimensions and Importance.

This dock, which has now been under construction for three years, is practically finished, and, it is expected, will be opened during this month by the docking of H. M. S. Bellerophon, the flagship of the North American and West Indies squadron.

The dock is situated on the west side of the harbor of Halifax, Nova Scotia, almost adjoining Her Majesty's dockyard, and is a work of the greatest importance, not only from an Imperial point of view, but also from a commercial. The only dock on the whole eastern coast of America, north or south, in which any vessels of the British navy can be repaired is the old floating dock at Bermuda, which is practically useless as regards the larger type of men-of-war, and which costs the government some £7000 a year to keep in repair. Bermuda in these advanced times is good only for a look out station. It is necessary to keep a large depot of coal there, and any obstruction to the supply being maintained would mean placing the whole of the North American squadron out of action, should the place be blockaded in time of war by a hostile fleet.

Halifax must, therefore, be the great naval station on the Eastern American coast, now that it is provided with a dock capable of taking in the largest man of war or mercantile vessel afloat, with all the appliances necessary to repair vessels, and in direct communication with the best coalfields of Nova Scotia. For the countless numbers of merchant vessels trading between America and Europe the opening of the dock will be a special boon. The route of all steamships crossing the North Atlantic lies within 150 miles of Halifax, which with its beautiful harbor, accessible at all times, affords a refuge in case of accidents, which no other port on the North American coast can approach.

The dimensions of the new dock, which is one of the largest in the world, are as follows:—

	FT.	IN.
Length—Face of coping at head of dock to face of approach	600
Length on bottom to face of approach	562
Width of dock at coping	102
" " bottom	70
" entrance at coping	80	3
Depth—Cope to floor at head	32
" " entrance	36	6
" " sill	34	6
Depth of water on sill at high-water ordinary spring tides	30
Entrance working depth at floor	28
" " cope	38½

The dock has been built from plans of the late F. La Trobe Bateman, F. R. S., and the work carried out by Messrs. S. Pearson & Son, of London and Bradford, and Mr. S. M. Brookfield, of Halifax, Nova Scotia. Some delay has been experienced owing to the impossibility of working under water at the coffer-dam during the cold weather. Alongside the graving dock proper is a large wharf made out of the stone excavated from the dock. From this wharf jetties having a water depth of 35 feet are run out into the harbor for the accommodation of vessels loading or discharging, and suitable warehouses are built for goods, coals, &c. In connection with the graving dock are workshops, keys and everything necessary for the repairing of vessels. The dock can be cleared of water in four hours. The pumps are a great success, and although the contract only called on them to throw 25,000 feet per minute, they greatly exceed that amount.

TOLLER & ROBINSON VS. MAY—TOLLER VS. MAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Having appeared for Mr. Toller and Mr. Robinson in these cases, I think it right to state that Mr. E. M. Johnson's report in this morning's Colonist is most untruthful and unfair and appears to have been written with the express object of injuring the plaintiffs.

A dispute between real estate agents respecting a commission has little interest for the public, but it is of importance that newspaper reports of legal cases should not be made the vehicles of private malice. Yours, etc.,
J. ROLAND HAYN.

Fort Smith, Ark., Sept. 7.—A remarkable trial commenced here this morning before the United States court. WAS A FAKE.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The Evening News to-day publishes a complete exposure of Graham's alleged trip over Niagara Falls last Sunday. The affair was shrouded in such mystery and bore such palpable evidence of fraud that the News set out to prove it a hoax or the most sensational "fakes."

GOT HIS REWARD.

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—Henry Hill, who robbed the stage at Susanville, Cal., last Friday, has pleaded guilty and has been sentenced to seventeen years in the state prison.

New York, Sept. 6—The World has published a recent letter from General Lew Wallace to President Diaz of Mexico, suggesting that General Sturm, of Indiana, be recompensed by Mexico for certain expenses incurred about 1864. The expenses were in connection with a certain loan raised by Mexico in this country by the aid of the secret influence of General Grant, President Lincoln, General Wallace and others, General Sturm being the confidential agent between the parties. General Wallace says that General Grant saw that the confederacy was doomed; he feared large numbers of confederate soldiers would, after the war closed, go to Mexico and join Maximilian's army. He persuaded Lincoln to secretly aid the Juarez government and expel Maximillian. Wallace was sent to Mexico to open the negotiations, and was instructed not to let the secretary of war know of his action, as the latter was opposed to such a step. The result of the movement was the strengthening of the Mexican army and the overthrow of Maximilian.

STRIKERS YIELD.

London, Sept. 7.—The dock companies have agreed to the demands of the strikers, but the rates of wages to be paid are to continue as at present, no advance to go into effect until January. It is made a condition of the arrangement that all strikers shall resume work next Monday. Burns and Tillett signified their acceptance of the terms.

ASSIGNED.

San Francisco, Sept. 7—The San Francisco Contracting Co. has assigned for the benefit of its creditors. The liabilities are nearly $40,000; assets not known. Inability to fulfill certain large contracts as the cause of the assignment.

OVER NIAGARA FALLS.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Steve Brodie accomplished the perilous feat this morning of going over the Horse Shoe falls in a rubber suit. He has recovered consciousness and some fears are entertained for his recovery.

Brodie and party arrived at Clifton last night. The party were Ernest Gould, John Ledger, John McCarthy, Wm. E. Harding and several newspaper men. The party registered at the Waverly hotel under fictitious names. Brodie's suit was placed just above the Canadian falls last night for use at four o'clock this morning. Brodie, with the party, left the hotel and John McCarthy, Ernest Gould and Brodie went to a point two hundred feet above the falls. Brodie then stripped and donned his rubber suit which was inflated. At 5:30 Brodie with a paddle entered the water, was caught by the current, waved his paddle and in a second was shot over the centre of the Horseshoe Falls and quickly lost to view.

HE WAS SEARCH

in the water for about two minutes, when a black object rose and he was seen bobbing and jumping in the boiling caldron of rushing waters. In a short time Brodie was caught in the rushing current and carried at a brisk pace toward the American shore, and then all of a sudden he was hurried towards the Canadian side, where John Ledger and a United Press correspondent had ropes ready to drag him from the water. Ledger stripped and swam out two hundred feet with a rope fastened to his waist, while W. E. Harding held the other end on shore. After several attempts Ledger fastened the rope to the steel cased suit and swam ashore and assisted in getting the daring swimmer from the water. On Brodie being lifted on to the rocky shore he was quickly stripped, brandy was poured in small quantities on his temples while he was rubbed down and chafed.

BUT WAS INSENSIBLE.

Blood oozed from his mouth, eyes and ears probably from the shock and concussion. For twenty minutes he lay unconscious until ammonia was applied to his nostrils, when he began to shiver and gesticulate with his hands. His injuries are confined to many bruises and a sprained ankle.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Prospect of the Dock Laborers Obtaining Their Demands.

London, Sept. 6.—The conference today between the dock directors and shippers on one side and Cardinal Manning, the Lord Mayor, the Bishop of London and Sir John Lubbock on the other, lasted four hours. The gentlemen named exhausted all their powers of persuasion upon the dock directors in their effort to induce them to grant the strikers' demand unconditionally. In this they were not successful, the dock magnates proving inexorable. They did, however, obtain important concessions and one which must sooner or later result in the virtual triumph of the strikers.

Norwood, champion of the dock directors, consented to allow the shippers and vessel owners to load and discharge their own vessels, making any arrangements they may see fit with the laborers. Up to this time the dock companies have consistently refused this permission, on the plea that it would be virtually surrendering, as the owners and shippers were prepared to hire men on their own terms. The concession clears away the last obstruction to the resumption of work on all the docks, and it is expected that to-morrow every dock laborer in London will be employed and at the figures for which they made such a determined fight.

A curious sight was witnessed at Greenwich this morning, when 1000 women, the wives and daughters of the striking dock laborers, paraded the streets carrying banners upon which were emblazoned, "No rent while the strike lasts." After marching through the streets they placed their banners in the open squares and left them there when they disbanded.

Lord Randolph Churchill spoke at Newton to-night, and dwelt at some length on the pending strike. The strikers, he said, were the natural outcome of the excesses into which the employers had fallen in their effort to extort undue profits by giving labor inadequate wages.

HUNDREDS KILLED

By an Explosion of Dynamite in a Cartridge Factory.

Antwerp, Sept. 6.—A large quantity of dynamite exploded in a cartridge factory here to-day, totally demolishing the building in which the explosives were kept, and killing two hundred men according to a late estimate, and injuring about five hundred more. The factory was located in the vicinity of the Bourse, which at the time of the explosion was crowded. The burning portions of the factory were hurled against the Bourse, setting it on fire, and creating a panic among the members, several of whom were injured. Some large petroleum stores stood adjacent to the factory, and these were set on fire by the burning fragments and are now burning fiercely. The city is enveloped in smoke.

The explosion occurred in a workshop where a large number of old cartridges had been taken to pieces. Many men and women were employed in this shop, and they were actively engaged in breaking up the old cartridges. There were fully 25,000,000 of these in and about the premises. Part of them were already broken up. The flames covered two acres of ground and rose to an immense height. Amidst the fierce roar of the flames are heard from time to time the loud reports of explosions, by which there seemed to be no end. These explosions are supposed to be of packages of cartridges stored in the buildings, which seem to remain intact until the hot tongues of the flames were actually upon them. The shipping at the African docks is in serious danger, and all the buildings for removing the vessels from the immediate vicinity of the conflagration are being pressed into service.

At an early hour this morning the fire was still raging with undiminished fury, and the military are assisting the firemen in preventing the spread of the conflagration. It is now certain that fully 200 people have perished, and no less than 1000 are injured.

The scenes at the hospitals, where the wounded have been conveyed, are heart-rending. The ships at the American docks were saved, the wind being favorable. The explosions at the burning cartridge factory still continue at frequent intervals and the flying shells render the work of the firemen and soldiers extremely perilous.

FIRE STILL RAGING.

Antwerp, Sept. 7.—Thus far the efforts of firemen, assisted by the military and the populace, to subdue the flames have been unsuccessful, and the fire still rages fiercely. The docks and shipping have not yet been touched by the flames, the direction of the wind having been continuously toward the town since the explosion. A judicial inquiry into the origin of the explosion has been ordered.

FIELD TESTIFIES

Ex-Judge Terry Struck Him a Terrible Blow.

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—Justice Field was the principal witness examined in the Nagle case to-day. He briefly detailed a number of occurrences previous to the killing of Judge Terry, including the decision he had rendered against Mrs. Terry a year ago and the affair in the courtroom at that time, which resulted in Terry and his wife being imprisoned for contempt. In relating the tragedy at Lathrop last month, he said:

"Deputy Marshal Nagle and myself entered the dining-room at Lathrop for breakfast, and soon after taking our seats Judge Terry and wife, who were on the same train, entered the room, and as they passed down the aisle Mrs. Terry glanced at me for a moment, and then turned about and left the place. Judge Terry seated himself, but arose immediately and came toward me. Before I realized what he intended to do I felt a powerful blow on my cheek. I turned around and saw Terry's giant form towering over me with clenched fist uprated. I said (part Nagle) aye, 'Stop that, I am an officer.' I then heard two pistol shots in quick succession and saw Terry fall to the floor. I was dazed for a moment, but soon realized that Terry had received his death wound, and I arose and left the room."

Justice Field, in reply to a question, expressed the opinion that if Nagle had not shot Terry he (Field) would have been dead in the next five seconds. He said the expression of Terry's face when he raised his hand to strike a second time could not be mistaken—it was full of malice and murder. Justice Field declared he never had any difficulty with Terry of any nature whatever, prior to rendering the judgment in the Sharon case a year ago. In fact they had always been on most friendly terms. Terry had often tried cases before him and on entering the court had always spoken to him pleasantly. During the last year or two, however, he seemed entirely changed and to have lost that respect which he formerly had for the courts.

Justice Field had heard the story of his having asked Terry to support him for president several years ago, but it was pure fiction. As he left the witness stand, Justice Field remarked that he was sorry there was no one on the other side to cross-examine him.

Conservatives Nominate a Candidate for Lambton—The Erring Girl's Return.

It is supposed he fell between the cars of a freight train going east between 4 and 5 o'clock. One arm and the head were almost severed from the body.

REV. LONGLEY SEEKS A PASTORATE.

SEARLE-O'CONNOR.

Heavy Betting To-Day in England—Hanlan's Prophecy.

[Special to THE TIMES.]

London, Sept. 7.—Everything is ready for the Searle-O'Connor championship race on Monday next. Benjamin Horlon, captain of the London Rowing Club, has been chosen umpire. W. A. Lowe has been selected for distance judge. He also, is a member of the London Rowing Club.

Both O'Connor and Searle were twice afloat to-day, and the general opinion at the meeting to make the final deposit, appeared to be that O'Connor would lead Searle over the first part of the course, and that the latter would gradually wear down the Toronto man.

At the meeting, Chairman Innes said he had a pleasant communication to make. This was the Sportsman's challenge cup to be thrown in with the championship. The conditions were that the cup must be rowed for on the Thames or Tyne and must be won three consecutive times to pass out of the Sportsman's ownership. The present owner, Wallace Ross, had waived his title to the cup. Lord Londesborough, Sir John Astley and Mr. Chinneny, had agreed to alter the conditions so they would read that the cup should be rowed for on the Thames or Tyne. This matter disposed of, Bookmaker Joseph Thompson offered to bet £10,000 to £8,000

THAT SEARLE WOULD WIN.

Rogers retorted with an offer of £4,000 to £3,000 on O'Connor. "Why, you've got the champion," said Thompson. "He is only the champion of America; you have the champion of the world," replied Rogers. Sed only Mossop called out £1,500 to £1,500 on O'Connor. Quick as a flash Thompson said, "I'll take it." Before the money was put up Carnichael of Toronto repeated the bet. Thompson accepted this again. The money was put up in Innes' hands. The Australians then pulled in their horns and would not give a better quotation than 10 to 8, at which figure not a pound was laid. Betting is generally 5 to 4, or 10 to 8 in favor of Searle. The race begins at 1 15, English time, and should be known in America early in the morning.

O'CONNOR'S FRIENDS GIVE ODDS.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Local sports are greatly excited over the approaching race between Searle and O'Connor on the Thames on Monday. The latter is the favorite here and bets of $500 to $400 were recorded to day. Belief that O'Connor will win the race is growing and his backers are anxious to get all their money placed. A close estimate puts the amount of Toronto money behind O'Connor in London at $50,000.

HANLAN'S PROPHECY.

Edward Hanlan makes this prophecy. One mile from the start O'Connor leads by a bare length; at Hammersmith bridge O'Connor leads by a length and a half; at Chiswick, O'Connor leads by a bare length; at Barnes' bridge Searle leads nearly a length; at Dreary, O'Connor leads about a length and at the finish O'Connor leads a length and a half.

SHE RAN AWAY.

Mr. Justice Ferguson's Daughter of Toronto Stage Struck.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Society is all agog over the runaway of Miss Fannie Ferguson, daughter of Mr. Justice Ferguson, of Osgoode Hall. It appears she was but fifteen years of age, but a very well developed girl. The first intimation her family had of her flight was a note to the following effect, which she left and which was found on the hat rack:

"I know father and mother will never consent to my going on the stage. You will not expect me back."

Mr. Justice Ferguson is himself an ardent patron of the stage. His brother, the late Charles Ferguson, was an amateur performer of no small ability. His line was Irish comedy.

On Wednesday two girls called at the Rossin House and sent word to Nat Goodwin that they wanted to go on the stage. As Nat's company is full, and he does not deal in the amateur article, he sent them word that they had better see some other manager. He did not even see them. It is merely rumored that one of them may have been Miss Ferguson.

MISS FERGUSON'S RECENT RACK.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—A sensation has been caused here by the sudden disappearance of the 15 year old daughter of Judge Ferguson, who ran away to go on the stage. The matter was placed in the hands of detectives who traced the girl to Buffalo, from where she was brought back this evening.

A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.

A Seattle Jailer Blinded by Pepper in a Terrible Fight.

Seattle, Sept. 6.—At 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning Jailer Farrcher, as is his daily custom, went down to the jail to give the prisoners their breakfast, which had been brought from Sheriff McGraw's residence by four "trusties." The food was set down in the hallway and opened out among the prisoners. The north corridor was then opened and the prisoners marched up one by one to receive their rations as they were passed through the open door, each man stepping to the rear as he received his plate.

Jailer Farrcher then opened the door of the south corridor and stood with his hand upon it in order to intercept a break, while the trusties passed in the plates of food to the prisoners. Several had been served when Charles Clark's turn came. At this moment, whether by a preconcerted arrangement or not it is not known, a prisoner in the north corridor called out to the jailer that he had not received his breakfast. The jailer relaxed his vigilance for a moment to speak to the prisoner who had addressed him, when Clark sprang forward and threw a handful of red pepper into his eyes.

FIGHTING THREE DESPERADOES.

Although almost blinded from the effects of the cayenne, Jailer Farraher prepared for the struggle he saw was inevitable. Clark was upon him, followed by three others before he could close the corridor door, so he seized Clark by the throat with his left hand, while his right went back after his revolver.

A terrible struggle for life then began. Davis, who was close behind his companion in crime, grappled the jailer from behind and tried to tear him to the floor. Martin reached over Clark and backed him with a razor. Farraher continued to struggle and succeeded in drawing his gun and placing it against Clark's breast, but just as he was about to pull the trigger, a fourth prisoner, whose identity is unknown to the jailer, jumped in and overpowered him, and the revolver fell from his hands, fortunately dropping into his hat, which had been knocked from his head at the start, where it remained throughout the struggle without being seen.

MARTIN BEST ON MURDER.

The jailer was now overpowered and borne to the floor by his assailant. Martin, who up to this time had only succeeded in slashing his face and hands in a few places, now grew demoniac with rage and slashed at him crying, "Let me cut the s—n of b—s throat, d—n his." Several times he came near carrying this purpose into execution, but whenever he put the razor to his throat to cut it the plucky jailer in his desperation grasped the keen blade which was pulled through his hands, making horrible gashes from which the blood spurted all over the corridor and the struggling men. The last time Martin made a pass with his weapon the jailer caught hold of the blade and twisted it from its handle, making it useless as a weapon.

The jailer had from the first been crying loudly for help, and the ruffians, fearing that assistance would come, choked him and searched him, securing his keys. Martin also searched his pockets for the revolver, but as already stated, it had fallen to the floor and become concealed in a hat early in the scuffle.

THE ESCAPE.

The ruffians then opened the front door with the keys secured from the jailer's pockets, and leaving him nearly senseless on the floor, passed out into the yard, which is surrounded by a high fence. Before they could scale the jail yard the deputy-sheriff appeared on the scene and took a shot at one of the prisoners going over the wall which wounded him, and he with the others were soon captured by officers who arrived just in time. The jailer is terribly cut on the face and hands, a piece being cut completely out of his left hand and the thumb of the right hand almost completely severed. When the news of the affair became known, terrible indignation was aroused among the people and it was expected an attempt would be made to lynch the would-be murderers. In fact it is said that only a leader for the mob was required to insure the attempt being made. If the jailer had been killed the papers are of opinion it would have been made and the population of the jail reduced by four or five. Two of the prisoners who made the assault were highwaymen. Martin was a jewelry thief who fled to Victoria recently where he gave up the booty to an officer who followed him, thinking he would not be prosecuted but eventually returned and was arrested. He is a confirmed opium smoker and bad man generally.

LATEST ALASKA NEWS.

A Cannery Destroyed by Fire—Mining Notes.

From E. W. Walker, of the Springfield Illinois State Register, who was a passenger on the Amen, a reporter learned the following late items of Alaskan news:

The salmon catch, which at the beginning of the season threatened to be a very small one, will be above the average. All the canneries, with the exception of one, which was built late in the season at Bartlett Bay, have been packing salmon to their fullest capacity. At Loring 25,000 cases had already been packed and 5,000 more will be packed by the end of the season, which is about the middle of October. The run of salmon in the streams has been something wonderful, and when the total number of cases is given, so the packers say, the catch will be found to be simply enormous.

MINING MATTERS.

The Silver Bowl Basin mine, four miles from Juneau, has been doing exceptionally well and is producing the richest kind of silver and gold ore. The longest wagon road in Alaska has just been completed from Juneau to this mine. It cost $8000 to build it, and wagons run go where formerly mules could only travel.

The Sheep Creek mine, seven miles east of Juneau, has just lately been opened, and ore is being shipped that assays $70 a ton. A new mine, some ten miles distant from Sitka, is producing very rich gold ore.

CANNERY BURNED.

Just before the shipping of tourists left Loring, news was brought from Tongass of the destruction by fire on Saturday, August 31, of Elderberry cannery. The news was brought by man in a small sail boat. The cannery, which was owned by San Francisco parties, is a total loss, and with it was destroyed 15,000 cases of salmon valued at $75,000. The cannery and machinery were valued at $10,000. How the fire started is not known.

On Saturday, August 31, two Indians, while engaged in fishing in Naha bay, were drowned by the overturning of their canoe during a squall.

A "FAKE" MIRAGE.

The alleged mirage of a mysterious city on the Muir glacier, so Mr. Walker said, is a humbug. There is no such a mirage to be seen, and the whole scheme is simply go too up by enterprising photographers and a newspaper sensation hunter. The mirage does not exist, and no one except those who make money by the sale of photographs has ever seen it.

INTERIOR DEVELOPMENT.

Mr. HARRY ARKELL of Vancouver has been visiting the Spallumcheen-Okanagan country, and is delighted with it, says the News Advertiser, and further, Mr. ARKELL, like the majority of persons who have visited that delectable section, is strongly in favor of the S. & O. railway. Mr. ARKELL undoubtedly is right. Spallumcheen should have a railway. Besides, as an adjunct to the enterprise there should be surveys made with a view to obtaining data whereon to base a plan for irrigation. There is no doubt but that we are neglecting not alone the fairest portion of the interior of British Columbia, but a portion as well whose resources can be made quickly available as a means of promoting a trade of supplies for the coast cities. The products of Spallumcheen and Okanagan might just as well be marketed in Victoria and at other points on the coast as the products of Oregon and California. The government will say, perhaps, that it has done its best to make the districts in question accessible. Well, perhaps it has; but it is a little remarkable that with all of the rhetoric which the government has lavished on an issue of their own making, not one of them has hazarded the proposition that the vast country contiguous to Lake Okanagan is worth considering as a feature of internal development. We fully appreciate the desirability of a railway line tapping northern British Columbia, but we cannot close our eyes to the fact that the southern portions of the province are in themselves important factors to be considered in the problem of provincial development. It is just possible as the period for the election approaches that the government will suddenly remember that as a consideration for the political support of the Okanaganites a point can be strained in their behalf. The Okanaganites will do well to remember, in such a case, that a government which makes virtue a necessity should be given a period of repose, should be given a few years to ponder over their mistakes, and set themselves right with posterity. If the government have the slightest regard as to their standing in history a hundred years hence, they will set their biographers in motion, and turn their attention to copious private notes for posthumous publication explanatory of a policy which nobody can understand and which they will not condescend to elucidate.

STRIKES.

The London strike numerically is strong but it will accomplish little good to the working man. Powderly and other able leaders of the laboring element admit that the strike is a failure in securing and maintaining the rights of labor. It is estimated that since 1880 strikes have cost $94,000,000, of which $60,000,000 came out of the pocket of labor. At these rates the strike is a losing game, and much more injurious to the laborer than to the capitalists.

The principle embodied in the foregoing, as furnishing an idea of pecuniary losses incident to strikes, while interesting as a statistical computation, has no more value as an economic proposition than the sums the laborer annually spends for candy and ice cream. In considering the morality of strikes and the labor question generally, we are not to lose sight of the fact that though venality and passion play their parts, the great principle at stake is "Live and let live." This aphorism is another form of the golden rule. It is sound doctrine. It is the essence of humanity. Most everybody holds to the aphorism we have just quoted in theory; scarcely anybody, however, reduces it to practice. If labor on the one hand is unreasoning, it must be borne in mind that capital on the other have to accord to Body by self-interest. "Live and let live" do not enter into its calculations. The question it wrestles with is not fair wages but low wages. It determines the wages it will pay not by what labor is really worth, but by the conditions and the necessities of the labor market. This is "business." It is a maxim of business. Success depends, in the estimation of the business man, on his ability to produce at the lowest possible figure and selling at the highest he can get. As to the physical and moral consequences of low wages, these he cannot take into consideration; he cannot be a business man and a philanthropist at the same time. Taking into consideration, therefore, that capital is not regulated by motives of equity, that its policy is necessarily a selfish one, and that its maxims consistently employed reduce labor to the level of beasts of burden, the struggle between these two forces of society rises to the dignity of a moral question, and in computing the cost we are not to reckon by dollars and cents. It is an abstract question, and in figuring losses and gains these must be in the abstract, also. It is idle to undertake to compute moral results by their cost in pounds, shillings and pence. Every inch gained in the establishment of the idea that one portion of the community has no right to build itself up to the detriment of another, is a step toward the grand ultimate of civilization, and what it has cost in dollars has no significance as an economic proposition. The cost of struggles which involve moral principles cannot be arrived at by any method of arithmetical computation. It cost the United States three billions of money to free the negro. The negro regarded as a mere chattel, and his relief from bondage attended with consequences to society of no more import than the pensioning of a dray horse, three billions was an extravagant price. Allowing that there were 4,000,000 slaves, and that every man, woman and child of them was worth $500 apiece, two billions would have sufficed to purchase their liberty. But the north paid three billions, and while as a business proposition it was an outrageous price, as a vindication of a great principle it was a bagatelle. Although it is the imperative duty of every man to see to it that no conditions are permitted to exist, whether political or industrial, which build up one class to the degradation of another, the efficiency of strikes may be questioned, although it is difficult to see what other recourse labor has. The trouble with strikes is, that fifty per cent. are causeless, while nine out of ten of the remaining fifty per cent. of justifiable strikes are ill-timed, heedless affairs, in which if capital manages to hold out the principals are soon reduced to starvation. They are like an army cut off from its base of supplies. No strike should be inaugurated unless based on justice, and even then it is unwise unless the principals are in a condition to support themselves for an indefinite period. The true policy for labor to pursue, however, is that of industry and economy. These conditions faithfully complied with, and though labor may not be in a condition to dictate, it at least is in a position to treat. Without industry and economy no man can prosper, no matter how favorable his opportunities. Labor owes to itself obedience to these conditions.

THE TORY PROPAGANDA.

The ostensibly Liberal Conservative organ on Government street is of the opinion that the public knows on which side its bread is buttered, and will in consequence rally under the Tory banner, endorse the oligarchy, and make Sir JOHN a little present in the shape of a solid delegation of parliamentary supporters. Perhaps; but we cannot help thinking that the Colonist must have been reading the "Pleasures of Hope" to be able to draw so roseate a picture. If the people of this province retain their wits they will decline to subscribe to the Tory propaganda now in process in incubation. They will do well to bear in mind that the Tory rescript, issuing from the classic precincts of Morison's drug store, is nothing more than decrepit Toryism re-vivified by a few squirts of the elixir of Liberal ideas, by which it is hoped to delude honest men. We say to the public, beware of the political lucubrations which emanate from the second story of the building on the corner of Government and Fort. Such productions are calculated to deceive the unwary.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Aylmer Sun: The prosperity of a town is not gauged by the wealth of its inhabitants, but by the uniformity with which they pull together when any important undertaking is to be accomplished. A man with a thousand dollars dollars at his command and a love for his town in his heart, can do more for the building up and improving it than the millionaire who locks up his capital and snaps his fingers at home progress.

The forty-third annual report of the Commissioners in Lunacy in Great Britain contains interesting figures. On New Year's Day last there were in the kingdom 84,340 insane persons. Various causes of insanity are set forth in a table covering 136,478 cases. Of these 9569 persons lost their reason from domestic trouble; 8060 from "adverse circumstances;" 8278 from overwork and worry; 3769 from religious excitement and 18,290 from intemperance. The influence of heredity was ascertained in 26,063 cases, and congenital defect in 5881.

Newfoundland is just now in the throes of a general election, and each side—Sir ROBERT THORBURN for the powers that be and Sir WILLIAM WHITEWAY for the powers that would be—is throwing out manifestoes with wonderful agility. To Canadians there is one feature of the contest that is of supreme interest—both parties fight shy of the Confederation issue. As Sir ROBERT THORBURN, the premier, says in his harangue "The question is not at this moment before us. It is for the people to decide when they have made up their minds." But at present the public mind is evidently not made up, and Canadians can well afford to wait.

Latest advices from the Australasian colonies respecting the forthcoming Intercolonial Conference would seem to point to some difficulties in the way of an immediate session. It appears that the various colonial legislatures are sitting at this moment, and inasmuch as the conference would probably be attended by the premiers of the respective colonies, it is obviously undesirable for it to assemble while the presence of ministers is imperatively needed at home. It is quite possible, therefore, that with a view to secure a thoroughly representative and authoritative gathering the conference may be deferred for a few months until, it may be, the spring, when undivided attention could be given to the important matters to be discussed.

PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE

IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT CHANCELLOR Browning, Commissioner for the C. P. R., has this, the 30th day of July, 1889, issued a proclamation warning all persons from purchasing lots from Samuel Greer in Lot 526, Group One. Now, may it please Your Lordship, I have never offered for sale any lots in said Lot 526, for that would be deception on the public, as the highest legal authority in British Columbia pronounced the title to that lot straw—not one cent as consideration having been given. Now, if Your Lordship will adjust your wig and recover from your deep studies of Blackstone and the laws of estoppal, you will be able to see that the four Judges who threw your case out of Court last April were fully able to comprehend the difference between 526 and Pre-emption Record 1003, this being the Honourable Member of my land on English Bay. Come down and see us. I have a few corner lots (with a smattering of coal) yet left. I mean lots with a smattering of coal; we have land to sell, and the public will receive no better bargains, notwithstanding Your Lordship's decision. Things will move just the same at English Bay.

All parties are hereby warned that Angus and Smith have no title to Lot 526 till confirmed by the Legislature, and all sales will be void.

THE BALANCES LIFTED.

DR. TALMAGE, THE ELOQUENT DIVINE, IN OMAHA, NEB.

The Sermon Is Based on These Memorable Words: "Thou Art Weighed in the Balances, and Art Found Wanting."—Daniel v. 27.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 1.—Great interest was manifested here today, the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preaching to an immense congregation. His text was: "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting."—Daniel v. 27. The preacher said:

Babylon was the paradise of architecture, and driven out from thence the grandest buildings of modern times are only the evidence of her fall. The site having been selected for the city, two million men were employed in the rearing of her walls and the building of her works. It was a city sixty miles in circumference. There was a trench all around the city from which the material for the building of the city had been dugged.

There were twenty-five gates on each side the city; between every two gates a tower of defense springing into the skies; from each gate on the one side, a street running straight through to the corresponding gate on the other side, so there were fifty streets fifteen miles long. Through the city ran a branch of the River Euphrates. This river sometimes overflowed its banks, and to keep it from the ruin of the city a lake was constructed, into which the surplus water of this river would run during the time of freshets, and the water was kept in this artificial lake until time of drought, and then this water would stream down over the city. At either end of the bridge spanning this Euphrates there was a palace—the one palace a mile and a half around, the other palace seven and a half miles around.

The wife of Nebuchadnezzar had been born and brought up in the country and in a mountainous region, and she could not bear this flat district of Babylon; and so, to please his wife, Nebuchadnezzar built in the midst of the city a mountain 400 feet high. This mountain was built out into terraces supported on arches. On the top of these arches a layer of flat stones; on the top of that a layer of reeds and bitumen; on the top of that two layers of bricks, closely cemented; on the top of that a heavy sheet of lead, and on the top of that the soil placed—the soil so deep that a Lebanon cedar had room to anchor its roots. There were pumps worked by mighty machinery, fetching up the water from the Euphrates to this hanging garden, as it was called, so that there were fountains spouting into the sky.

Standing below and looking up it must have seemed as if the clouds were in blossom, or as though the sky leaned on the shoulder of a cedar. All this Nebuchadnezzar did to please his wife. Well, she ought to have been pleased. I suppose she was pleased. If that would not please her nothing would. There was in that city also the temple of Belus, with towers—one tower the eighth of a mile high, in which there was an observatory where astronomers talked to the stars. There was in that temple an image, just one image, which cost what would be our fifty-two million dollars.

WEIGHED IN THE BALANCES.

O what a city! The earth never saw anything like it, never will see anything like it. And yet I have to tell you that it is going to be destroyed. The king and his princes are at a feast. They are all intoxicated. Pour out the rich wine into the chalices. Drink to the health of the king. Drink to the glory of Babylon. Drink to a great future.

A thousand lords reel intoxicated. The king, seated upon a chair, with vacant look, as intoxicated men will—with vacant look stared at the wall. But soon that vacant look takes on intensity, and it is an affrighted look; and all the princes begin to look and wonder what is the matter, and they look at the same point on the wall. And then there drops a darkness into the room and puts out the blaze of the golden plate, and out of the sleeve of the darkness there comes a finger—a finger of fiery terror circling around and circling around as though it would write; and then it comes up and with sharp tip of flame it inscribes on the plastering of the wall the doom of the king: "Weighed in the balances and found wanting." The bang of heavy fists against the gates of the palace are followed by the breaking in of the doors. A thousand gleaming knives strike into a thousand quivering hearts. Now Death is king, and he is seated on a throne of corpses. In that hall there is a balance lifted. God swung it. On one side of the balance are put Belshazzar's opportunities, on the other side of the balance are put Belshazzar's sins. The sins come down. His opportunities go up. Weighed in the balances—found wanting.

There has been a great deal of cheating in our country with false weights and measures and balances, and the government, to change that state of things, appointed commissioners whose business it was to stamp weights and measures and balances, and a great deal of the wrong has been corrected. But still, after all, there is no such thing as a perfect balance on earth. The chain may break or some of the metal may be clipped, or in some way the equipoise may be a little disturbed.

GOD'S BALANCES ARE ACCURATE.

You cannot always depend upon earthly balances. A pound is not always a pound, and you pay for one thing and you get another; but in the balance which is suspended to the throne of God, a pound is a pound, and right is right, and wrong is wrong, and a soul is a soul, and eternity is eternity. God has a perfect bushel and a perfect peck and a perfect gallon. When merchants weigh their goods in the wrong way, then the Lord weighs the goods again. If from the imperfect measure the merchant pours out what pretends to be a gallon of oil and there is less than a gallon, God knows it, and he calls upon his recording angel to mark it: "So much wanting in that measure of oil." The farmer comes in from the country. He has apples to sell. He has an imperfect measure. He pours out the apples from this imperfect measure. God recognizes it. He says to the recording angel: "Mark down so many apples too few—an imperfect measure." We may cheat ourselves and we may cheat the world, but we cannot cheat God, and in the great day of judgment it will be found out that what we learned in boyhood, at school, is correct: that twenty hundred weight make a ton, and one hundred and twenty solid feet make a cord of wood. No more, no less. And a religion which does not take hold of this life as well as the life to come is no religion at all. But, my friends, that is not the kind of balances I am to speak of today, that is not the kind of weights and measures. I am to speak of that kind of balances which can weigh principles, weigh churches, weigh men, weigh nations, and weigh worlds. "What?" you say, "is it possible that our world is to be weighed?" Yes. Why, you would think if God put on one side the balances suspended from the throne the Alps, and the Pyrenees, and the Himalayas, and Mount Washington, and all the cities of the earth, they would crush it. No, no. The time will come when God will sit down on the white throne to see the world weighed, and on one side will be the world's opportunities, and on the other side the world's sins. Down will go the sins and away will go the opportunities, and God will say to the messengers with the torch: "Burn that world! Weighed and found wanting!"

GOD WILL PRESCRIBE QUARTERS.

God will weigh churches. He takes a great church. That great church, according to the worldly estimate, must be weighed. He puts it on one side the balances, and the minister and the choir and the building that cost its hundreds of thousands of dollars. He puts them on one side the balances. On the other side of that scale he puts what that church ought to be, what its consecration ought to be, what its sympathy for the poor ought to be, what its devotion to all good ought to be. That is on one side. That side comes down, and the church, not being able to stand the test, rises in the balances. It does not make any difference about your magnificent machinery. A church is built for one thing—to save souls. If it saves a few souls when it might save a multitude of souls, God will spew it out of his mouth. Weighed and found wanting! So God estimates nations. How many times he has put the Spanish monarchy into the scales, and found it insufficient and condemned it! The French empire was placed on one side the scales, and God weighed the French empire, and Napoleon said: "Have I not enlarged the boulevards? Did I not kindle the glories of the Champs Elysees? Have I not adorned the Tuileries? Have I not built the gilded Opera house?" Then God weighed this nation, and he put on one side of the scales the emperor, and the boulevards, and the Tuileries, and the Champs Elysees, and the gilded Opera house, and on the other side he put that man's abominations, that man's libertinism, that man's selfishness, that man's godless ambition. This last came down, and all the brilliancy of the scene vanished. What is that voice coming up from Sedan? Weighed and found wanting!

But I must become more individual and more personal in my address. Some people say they do not think clergymen ought to be personal in their religious addresses, but ought to deal with subjects in the abstract. I do not think that way. What would you think of a hunter who should go to the Adirondacks to shoot deer in the abstract? Ah! no. He loads the gun, he puts the butt of it against the breast, he runs his eye along the barrel, he takes sure aim, and then crash go the antlers on the rocks. And so, if we want to be hunters for the Lord, we must take sure aim and fire. Not in the abstract are we to treat things in religious discussions. If a physician comes into a sick room does he treat disease in the abstract? No; he feels the pulse, takes the diagnosis, then he makes the prescription. And if we want to heal souls for this life and the life to come, we do not want to treat them in the abstract. The fact is, you and I have a malady which, if uncured by grace, will kill us forever. Now, I want no abstraction. Where is the balm? Where is the physician?

WE MUST ALL BE WEIGHED.

People say there is a day of judgment coming. My friends, every day is a day of judgment, and you and I today are being canvassed, inspected, weighed. Here are the balances of the sanctuary. They are lifted, and we must all be weighed. Who will come and be weighed first? Here is a moralist who volunteers. He is one of the most upright men in the country. He comes. Well, my brother, get in—get into the balances now, and be weighed. But as he gets into the balances, I say: "What is that bundle you have along with you?" "Oh," he says, "that is my reputation for goodness, and kindness, and charity, and generosity, and kindliness generally." "O my brother! we cannot weigh that; we are going to weigh you—you. Now, want in the scales—you, the moralist. Paid your debts?" "Yes," you say, "paid all my debts." "Have you acted in an upright way in the community?" "Yes, yes." "Have you been kind to the poor? Are you faithful in a thousand relations in life?" "Yes." "So far, so good. But now, before you get out of this scale, I want to ask you two or three questions. Have your thoughts always been right?" "No," you say, "no." Put down one mark. "Have you loved the Lord with all your heart, and soul, and mind, and strength?" "No," you say. Make another mark. "Come now, be frank, and confess that in ten thousand things you have come short—have you not?" "Yes." Make ten thousand marks. Come now, get me a book large enough to make the record of that moralist's deficits. My brother, stand in the scales, do not fly away from them. I put on your side the scales all the good deeds you ever did, all the kind words you ever uttered; but on the other side the scales I put this weight, which God says I must put there—on the other side the scales and opposite to yours I put this weight: "By the deeds of the law shall no flesh living be justified." Weighed and found wanting.

Still, the balances of the sanctuary are suspended and we are ready to weigh any who come. Who shall be the next? Well, here is a formalist. He comes and he gets into the balances, and as he gets in I see that all his religion is in genuflections and in outward observances. As he gets into the scales I say: "What is that you have in this pocket?" "Oh," he says, "that is Westminster Assembly Catechism." I say: "Very good. What have you in that other pocket?" "Oh," he says, "that is the Heidelberg Catechism." "Very good. What is that you have under your arm, standing in this balance of the sanctuary?" "Oh," he says, "that is a church record." "Very good. What are all these books on your side the balances?" "Oh," he says, "those are 'Calvin's Institutes.'" "My brother, we are not weighing books; we are weighing you. It cannot be that you are depending for your salvation upon your orthodoxy. Do you not know that the creeds and the forms of religion are merely the scaffolding for the building? You certainly are not going to mistake the scaffolding for the temple. Do you not know that men have gone to perdition with a catechism in their pocket?" "But," says the man, "I cross myself often." "Ah! that will not save you." "But," says the man, "I am sympathetic for the poor." "That will not save you." Says the man, "I sat at the communion table." "That will not save you." "But," says the man, "I have had my name on the church records." "That will not save you." "But I have been a professor of religion forty years." "That will not save you. Stand there on your side the balances and I will give you the advantage—I will let you have all the creeds, all the church records, all the Christian conventions that were ever held; all the communion tables that were ever built, on your side the balances. On the other side the balances I must put what God says I must put there. I put this million pound weight on the other side the balances: 'Having the form of godliness, but denying the power thereof.' From such turn away." Weighed and found wanting.

WHO IS TO BE WEIGHED NEXT?

Still the balances are suspended. Are there any others who would like to be weighed or who will be weighed? Yes, here comes a worldling. He gets into the scales. I can very easily see what his whole life is made up of. Stocks, dividends, percentages, "buyer ten days," "buyer thirty days." Get in, my friend; get into these balances and be weighed—weighed for this life and weighed for the life to come. He gets in. I find that the two great questions in his life are, "How cheaply can I buy these goods?" and "How dearly can I sell them?" I find he admires heaven because it is a land of gold and money must be "easy."

I find from talking with him that religion and the Sabbath are an interruption, a vulgar interruption, and he hopes on the way to church to drum up a new customer. All the week he has been weighing fruits, weighing meats, weighing ice, weighing coal, weighing confections, weighing worldly and perishable commodities, not realizing the fact that he himself has been weighed. On your side the balances, O worldling! I will give you full advantage. I put on your side all the banking houses, all the storehouses, all the cargoes, all the insurance companies, all the factories, all the silver, all the gold, all the money vaults, all the safety deposits—all on your side. But it does not add one ounce, for at the very moment we are congratulating you on your fine house and upon your princely income God and the angels are writing in regard to your soul, "Weighed and found wanting."

But I must go faster and speak of the final scrutiny. The fact is, my friends, we are moving on amid astounding realities. These pulses which now are drumming the march of life may, after a while, call a halt. We walk on a hair hung bridge over chasms. All around us are dangers lurking, ready to spring on us from ambush. We lie down at night, not knowing whether we shall arise in the morning. We start out for our occupations, not knowing whether we shall come back. Crowns being burnished for thy brow or bolts forged for thy prison. Angels of light ready to shout at thy deliverance, or fiends of darkness stretching up skeleton hands to pull thee down into ruin consummate. Suddenly the judgment will be here. The angel, with one foot on the sea and the other foot on the land, will swear by him that liveth forever and ever that time shall be no longer: "Behold, he cometh with clouds and every eye shall see him." Hark to the jarring of the mountains. Why, this is the setting down of the scales, the balances. And then there is a flash as from a cloud, but it is the glitter of the shining balances, and they are hoisted, and all nations are to be weighed. The unforgiven get in on this side the balances. They may have weighed themselves and pronounced a flattering decision. The world may have weighed them and pronounced them moral. Now they are being weighed in God's balances—the balances that can make no mistake. All the property gone, all the titles of distinction gone, all the worldly successes gone; there is a soul, absolutely nothing but a soul, an immortal soul, a never dying soul, a soul stripped of all worldly advantage, a soul—on one side of the scales. On the other side the balances are wasted Sabbaths, disregarded sermons, ten thousand opportunities of mercy and pardon that were cast aside. They are on the other side the scales, and there God stands, and in the presence of men and devils, earthquake and aroused, he announces, while groaning earthquake, and crackling conflagration, and judgment trumpet, and everlasting storm repeat it: "Weighed in the balances and found wanting."

But, my some who are Christians: "Certainly you don't mean to say that we will have to get into the balances? Our sins are all pardoned, our title to heaven is secure. Certainly you are not going to put us in the balances?" Yes, my brother. We must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, and on that day you are certainly going to be weighed.

ALL MUST BE WEIGHED.

O follower of Christ, you get into the balances. The bell of the judgment is ringing. You must get into the balances. You get in on this side. On the other side the balances we will place all the opportunities of good which you did not improve, all the attainments in piety which you might have had, but which you refused to take. We place them all on the other side. They go down, and your soul rises in the scale. You cannot weigh against all those imperfections.

Well, then, we must give you the advantage, and on your side of the scales we will place all the good deeds you have ever done, and all the kind words you have ever uttered. Too light yet! Well, we must put on your side all the consecration of your life, all the holiness of your life, all the prayers of your life, all the faith of your Christian life. Too light yet! Come, mighty men of the past, and get in on that side the scales. Come, Payson, and Doddridge, and Baxter, get in on that side the scales and make them come down that this righteous one may be saved. They come and they get in the scales. Too light yet! Come, the martyrs, the Latimers, the Wickliffes, the men who suffered at the stake for Christ. Get in on this side the Christian's balances, and see if you cannot help him weigh it aright. They come and get in. Too light yet! Come, angels of God on high. Let not the righteous perish with the wicked. They get in on this side the balances. Too light yet!

I put on this side the balances all the scepters of light, all the thrones of power, all the crowns of glory. Too light yet. But just at that point Jesus, the Son of God, comes up to the balances, and he puts one of his scarred feet on your side, and the balances begin to quiver and tremble from top to bottom. Then he puts both of his scarred feet on the balances, and the Christian's side comes down with a stroke that sets all the bells of heaven ringing. That Rock of Ages heavier than any other weight.

But, says the Christian, "Am I to be allowed to get off so easily?" Yes. If some one should come and put on the other side the scales all your imperfections, all your envies, all your jealousies, all your inconsistencies of life, they would not budge the scales with Christ on your side the scales. Go free! There is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus. Chains broken, prison houses opened, sins pardoned. Go free! Weighed in the balances, and nothing, nothing wanting.

YOU MUST HAVE CHRIST WITH YOU.

Oh! what a glorious hope. Will you accept it this day? Christ making up for what you lack, Christ the atonement for all your sins. Who will accept him? Will not this whole audience say: "I am insufficient, I am a sinner, I am lost by reason of my transgressions, but Christ has paid it all. My Lord, and my God, my life, my pardon, my heaven. Lord Jesus, I hail thee." Oh! if you could only understand the worth of that sacrifice which I have represented to you under a figure—if you could understand the worth of that sacrifice, this whole audience would this moment accept Christ and be saved.

We go away off, or back into history, to get some illustration by which we may set forth what Christ has done for us. We need not go so far. I saw a vehicle behind a runaway horse dashing through the street, a mother and her two children in the carriage. The horse dashed along as though to hurl them to death, and a mounted policeman with a shout clearing the way, and the horse at full run, attempted to seize those runaway horses and to save a calamity, when his own horse fell and rolled over him. He was picked up half dead. Why were our sympathies so stirred? Because he was badly hurt, and hurt for others. But I tell you today of how Christ, the Son of God, on the blood red horse of sacrifice came for our rescue, and rode down the sky and rode into death for our rescue. Are not your hearts touched? That was a sacrifice for you and for me. O thou who didst ride on the red horse of sacrifice! come this hour and ride through this assemblage on the white horse of victory.

Strange Animals.

It cannot be denied that "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet," but certainly it would not be as available for poetry if called by some pretentious, scientific term. Indeed, the names of science, when heard by ears unfamiliar with their meaning, have often a terrifying sound.

Two young men were studying, under the microscope, the bacteria found in ditch water, and one of them proposed that they should take their work home from the class room, after the usual hour for remaining there. One of them, who lived with a maiden aunt, said that he was sure she would allow them to use her dining room table, where they would have plenty of light, and on arriving at the house he made his request.

"Why don't you look at your live things at school, and leave them there?" she inquired, with manifest distaste for the whole subject.

"Because we've found such beauties today, we can't bear to stop looking," said her nephew. "Let us have the table, won't you?"

"Ye-yes, you may have the table," was the somewhat grudging response, and the young men, wondering why auntie was so peculiar, set to work. Presently she appeared again, this time holding her skirts gingerly about her ankles, that they might not touch the floor.

"Boys," said she, taking a careful glance in every direction, "do be careful of those things, won't you?"

"What, the bacteria?"

"Yes. Don't let any of the creatures get out, and hide about the room, so that you can't catch them."—Youth's Companion.

What He Would Have Said.

A certain lady in Paris gives periodical dinners, at which assemble most of the best known wits and literati of the day. The rule of the mansion is that while one person discourses no interruption whatever can be permitted. It is said that M. Renan once attended one of these dinners, and, being in excellent vein, talked without a break during the whole repast. Toward the end of the dinner a guest was heard to commence a sentence, but he was instantly silenced by the hostess. After they had left the table, however, she at once informed the extinguished individual that, as M. Renan had now finished his conversation, she would gladly hear what he had to say. The guest modestly declined: the hostess insisted. "I am certain it was something of consequence," she said. "Alas, madame," he answered, "it was, indeed, but now it is too late. I should have died a little more of that iced pudding."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Learning Well.

A few months ago an acquaintance came to a friend of mine and confided, with tears in her eyes, that her darling boy, not yet 5 years old, was learning to swear. She supposed he caught the habit from the boys playing out of doors, and she had tried everything to break him of it, but all in vain. What should she do? My friend was much troubled by the dilemma, but her sympathy changed to an opposite sentiment when the next day she was greeted by the grief stricken mother with the following words: "Oh, I must tell you what Ralph said just now. I was sitting here at my work and he was strutting about the room in his lordly style, when he spied a wooden toothpick on the floor. Well, what did that child do but strike an attitude and exclaim in the most tragic tone: 'My God! Here's a toothpick!'"

PERSONAL.

Items Telling of Movements of Well Known Persons.

J. Gilmore, the well known Nicols stock man, is in the city.

Bailey Gatzert, one of Seattle's leading citizens, accompanied by his wife, passed through the city last evening, en route from Harrison Hot Springs.

Geo. Taylor, M. P., and Mrs. Taylor, of Gananoque, Ont., arrived from the east last night and are at the Driard.

Miss M. Luney left by the North Pacific this morning to spend a few days on the Sound.

Wm Gill, of the inland revenue department, came down from the mainland last night after a several days' business trip.

J. M. Spinks, of Vancouver, is in the city on real estate matters.

Jas. Ellard, of New Westminster arrived last evening and is at the Driard.

C E Bunting, of the customs service, Esquimalt, returned last night from St John, N. B. Mr. Bunting looks well and has enjoyed the trip beyond expression. After an absence of thirty-one years things in general were changed beyond recognition. Mr. Bunting carried the name of Esquimalt, B. C., through the hotel registers and enlightened the benighted easterner on various western current topics. One of the pleasantest was the meeting with his brothers, events of whom there are five.

Lt. Col. M. P. P. is in the city.

A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing.

Wm Harvey, janitor of the Seamen's Bethel, Port Townsend, has skipped out with considerable funds belonging to the organization. He was a man of temperate habits and his conduct appears all the more strange because he identified himself with the church some time ago and professed to having experienced conversion. He took an active part in religious and temperance meetings. He left Port Townsend last Wednesday ostensibly to pay a short visit to Victoria and to return home on Monday. On that day, however, he left on the Umatilla for San Francisco, and it was on the discovery of this that suspicion was first aroused against him. The Port Townsend Call says: "A few days before his departure for Victoria a number of sailors deposited about $325 with him for safekeeping, and a gold watch belonging to a citizen had been given to him as security for a loan of $25, the value of the watch being at least $85; it is also stated that he had two other watches in his possession, that had been entrusted to his care. The money and the gold watches he took with him to Victoria. Upon arriving in Victoria he deposited $300 with Mrs. Mitchell, late of this city, who conducts a lodging house in Victoria, for safe keeping. This money he drew before he departed for San Francisco Monday night on the Umatilla." The chief of police in San Francisco has been telegraphed to apprehend him.

Marine.

The Costa Rica, coal laden for San Francisco, passed down last evening.

Alaska Steamer.

The Corona will be the next steamer to Alaska, taking the place of the Anvon. She will leave Victoria on or about the 11th inst.

Good Hunting.

Messrs W. H. R. Hill and Wm. Jensen of the Occidental hotel returned from a trip last evening with twenty-one brace of grouse and one deer. They say birds are very plentiful.

C. P. R. Shares.

The upward movement in the Canadian Pacific Railway shares continues day by day. On Thursday they were 64⅛ in New York, and yesterday they were 65⅛, advancing at the same time to 67 in London.

Rites of Confirmation.

At the Reformed Episcopal Church to-morrow afternoon, the sacred and beautiful rites of confirmation will be bestowed on a number of young ladies and gentlemen by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Cridge assisted by Rev. Dr. Reid.

Will Appeal.

The validity of the conviction against Geo. Macauley, who was convicted in the police court yesterday to pay a fine of $50 on a charge of conniving at the sale of liquor to an Indian, will be appealed to the Country Court though the defendant's attorney.

A Pleasure Trip.

The new tug Lorne, Capt Christensen, left on her first regular trip this morning, going to Departure Bay and Comox. The party of guests was a select one, comprising Hon. C. E. Pooley, A Dunsmuir, E. G. Prior, M. P., Ald. D. R. Harris and several others. They will return Monday.

Correction.

The morning paper announced that Rev. J. E. Starr, of the Pandora street Methodist Church, would preach in Seattle next Sunday (to-morrow). This is not correct, as Mr. Starr will be in Victoria to-morrow and officiate as usual at his church. He purposes visiting Seattle the following Sunday.

The Park Zoo.

The seal donated by Mr. E. Shields to the Beacon Hill park "zoo," took a leap for liberty last night from the deck of the Viva and escaped. Mr. Thos. How will make the deficiency good however by donating a very fine male fur seal for which Mr. Goodacre, the chairman of the park, is very thankful.

Suggestions for St. Andrew's Church Managers.

Incipient Strike.

The deck hands on the steamer Rithet struck yesterday, claiming to be overworked and tired. A force of Chinamen were at once engaged to load the steamer's outward cargo and she left for New Westminster at 8 o'clock last night, thirteen hours behind time. The crew, who had a day's rest through the strike, returned to work just before the vessel left, apparently satisfied.

Music at the Park.

The following selections will be performed in the Park pavilion to-morrow afternoon, weather permitting, by the Philharmonic band:

The Dominion Grand March ..... A. Clappe

Potpourri, "The Silver Bells" ..... J. Shaw

Reduction in Rates.

Mr. D. E. Brown, district freight and passenger agent of the C. P. R. has announced a reduction in freight rates between Vancouver and New Westminster to a uniform charge of 10 cents per 100 pounds. Hitherto the rate has been 12 to 25 cents per 100 pounds according to the character of the merchandise. A freight car will be attached to the evening train for New Westminster. The reduction will assist materially in increasing the trade between these two points, and will certainly meet with the approval of business men.

An Incident of the Season.

A well-known young man was out hunting a few days ago and shot a pheasant in mistake for a grouse. He was going along a trail with the bird in his hand, when a preventive officer jumped out of the bush, saying "Now I've got you, young fellow." "The — you have," said the young fellow, who happened to be a sprinter from away back, and off he went and the officer after him. The officer has not caught up yet.

Change of Teachers.

Mr. R. L. Fraser has resigned the position of teacher of the South Saanich school and has been succeeded by Mr. G. H. Sluggett, formerly of the West Saanich school. Mr. Fraser was one of the most capable and popular teachers who has ever been in the province, and his resignation is very much regretted by the people of Saanich.

Mr. H. J. Rossiter, B. A., has also given up charge of the North Saanich school and will leave, with Mr. Fraser, in a few weeks for the east where they will enter college to study medicine.

Change of Captains.

Capt. McCulloch, who acted as pilot of the Princess Louise for two northern trips, has been transferred to the Yosemite for the present.

Capt. Jagers, of the R. P. Rithet, has temporarily taken command of the Princess Louise while the salmon fleet are loading.

Capt. Roberts, pilot on the Islander, has been assigned to the command of the steamer Rithet for a brief period.

This morning there was not a single vessel belonging to the C. P. N. Co. in harbor, the entire fleet being busily engaged in different parts of the province.

Shot by Her Brother's Gun.

Miss Lucy Lewis, 16 years of age, was accidentally shot and killed at her home on the west side of Samamish lake, on Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The Nanaimo paper gives the following account of the accident: Her brother, a young man of about 24 years, had just returned home from Gilman, bringing with him his Winchester rifle. The young man and his mother sat down on one of the steps leading up to the door of the house, and just as his sister came to the door and was in the act of placing her hand on her brother's shoulder, the gun slipped down and was discharged, the ball striking the unfortunate girl in the right eye and coming out at the base of the brain. She fell dead instantly. Her relatives are well nigh crazed with grief. George Parks, justice of the peace of Gilman, was summoned and held an inquest. The jury returned a verdict that Miss Lewis came to her death through the accidental discharge of a gun. The deceased is the sister of Mrs. Myle Stephenson of Nanaimo.

LIEUT. COL. PRIOR'S POSITION.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—The interest Col. E. G. Prior takes in the formation of the so-called Liberal Conservative association is no doubt on account of his apprehension of the next election for the commons. The appeals of Col. Prior on behalf of Victoria have not been heeded by the Dominion government, and our representative fears that some one of more weight will be sent to Ottawa on our behalf. His action on the Jesuit question will also sever his connection with many of his old supporters; hence his fear and anxiety.

Duff, Mr. Cecil Higgins, Mr. Ewing, Mr. Bernard, Mr. Shummuya, Rev. G. Owen, Mrs. Denison, three children and maid, Miss Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mr. Gardner, Miss Mary Radford and Mr. F. R. Martin.

POLICE COURT.

In addition to an inconsequential drunk, the cases in the police court this morning were as follows:

Antoine Pascelle was charged with firing a gun in the park. Antoine had left France about a year ago and lived in Winnipeg since that time. He could not speak a word of English. On arriving in Victoria he took his gun yesterday and went out to the park to shoot crows, as he explained in court this morning. His Honor informed him that he would let him off this time by paying a five dollar fine and $2 50, the costs of the interpreter, but he had better leave the crows of the park alone in future.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

John Fay was charged with attempting to rob a Chinaman on the streets. It was alleged that assisted by another man he had seized the Chinaman at a late hour last night and rifled his pockets.

When the case came up the prisoner asked for a remand to enable him to procure counsel. He had no intention to rob the Chinaman, that he had just grabbed hold of him in a drunken lark. John Forbes alias Johnson who was arrested as Fay's accomplice, was also remanded.

The police give both men hard names. Forbes has been in jail several times and Fay had an information laid against him last year for robbery. He left the city at the time and only returned lately.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY WORK.

How Matters are Progressing on Railway Construction.

Construction on the Westminster Southern Railway is now progressing in a most energetic manner, and if the present fine weather holds out a large addition to the work already accomplished will be completed within the next thirty days. The grading is now complete from Brownsville to a point a little south of Parsons channel, a distance of eleven miles. Here a heavy cut breaks the line, but beyond this the grading is completed for three and a half miles more. A little over 600 cubic yards of earth is to be taken from the cut, and a large force of men and teams are now at work on the excavation, which will be finished in about three weeks. From the Yale road crossing, southwards to the Nickolmeckl river, all the road bed is under construction, about two hundred men being employed on this portion of the contract. Weather permitting, the whole line from Brownsville to the Nicolmeckl river will be completed without a break by the end of the present month. A gang of men are now engaged in building the culverts over the grading so far as completed.

South of the boundary construction is being rapidly pushed, and the management hopes to have the line complete from Fairhaven to Westminster, and the last spike driven, not later than the first day of May next. Mr. Bennett has ordered the steel rails from England, through Messrs. Balfour, Guthrie & Co., of San Francisco, and ships are now loading them. The rails are to be delivered in February next, which will give ample time to have them laid by the 1st of May. The steel for the British Columbia portion of the road will be loaded direct for Westminster, and the ship's clearance papers will be made out for this port. From these facts, says the Columbian, it will be seen that everything in connection with the Southern Railway is going ahead satisfactory, and that under the new order of things great progress has been made.

PROTECTION OF GAME.

The Charge Against C. P. Bloomfield Dismissed.

Provincial Court was held this morning by Messrs. Robt. Ward and A. J. Langley, J. P's.

Charles P. Bloomfield was charged by summons with killing a deer on or about July 22nd, 1889.

The defendant pleaded not guilty and took exception to the information as not being specific.

E. M. Johnson, deposed: The information was laid in consequence of a letter from Wm. Copley, Sen. Could not produce the letter; was prosecutor in this case; grounds for prosecution contravention of laws of the country; first heard of defendant killing a deer about a week ago. Laid the information after Mr. Chas. A. Vernon's case had been disposed of; would not say whether I should have laid the information or not if Vernon had not been convicted; perhaps I should because Bloomfield deserved it; did not think the case is brought through malice; was not acting for Vernon, but for himself; wanted to get even on Bloomfield. The information was based on a letter received from Mr. Vernon.

William Copley testified that he saw the defendant on July 22nd with a deer on his back and a gun in his hands; heard no shooting though he was deaf. Answering a question put by Mr. Bloomfield, the witness stated he was occasionally employed by Mr. Vernon.

Joseph Copley and F. Copley also gave evidence to the effect that they had seen Bloomfield with a deer on his back and a gun in his hands near Shawnigan Lake.

The defendant stated the charge was not proven, there being no evidence of hunting or killing a deer.

Mr. E. M. Johnson, in reply to Mr. Bloomfield's speech in his defense, said it could never be proven that anyone saw the forger sign the paper but the possession, with other surroundings of guilt, was sufficient for conviction.

The magistrates did not consider that the charge of shooting and killing had been proven and the case was accordingly dismissed, the costs to be paid by the witness who laid the information.

The prosecution state that they will lay a new information, charging the defendant with being in possession of game contrary to law.

COUNTY COURT.

In this court yesterday Mr. Justice Crease gave judgment in the cases of Toller & Robinson v. May, and Toller v. May. In the first case the plaintiffs claimed $110 commission for a sale of defendant's property at Gordon Head. On the 5th of August the property was bonded by one John Cameron at $3,000. A peculiarity of this transaction was that Cameron having no money gave a pair of second-hand boots as the deposit and received a receipt for $10, which counsel for the defendant claimed amounted to a falsification.

On the sixth of August, or the following day, the plaintiffs alleged a sale of the same property, and it was in respect to this the new claim for commission was made.

The case of Toller v. May was an action to recover $500 for assault alleged to have been committed on the 8th of August when the defendant visited plaintiffs office and demanded from him the authority he had previously given to plaintiff to sell his property. Some sharp language was indulged in, the defendant calling the plaintiff, Toller, a swindler, at the same time assaulting him.

In rendering judgments in these cases Mr. Justice Crease said: In the case of Toller & Robinson vs. May, having examined all the papers and gone through the evidence again, the conclusion I have come to is, that the plaintiffs are not entitled to anything at all, and therefore my judgment is for defendant with costs.

The case of Toller vs May is different. But whatever the provocations may have been; whatever feeling of exasperation May may have been exhibited by May, he had no right to take the law into his own hands. But considering all the circumstances of the case, and the nature of the transactions between the parties which led up to the assault, I shall only say that I consider that judgment for plaintiff for the sum of five dollars ($5) ample compensation for any injury to his feelings as a gentleman, or to his business as a business man.

Mr. J. R. Helt for plaintiff; Mr. E. M. Johnson for defendant.

Croft & Angus vs. Kwong Chung & Co. This was an action tried yesterday for the recovery of money due for lumber. The defence was that the lumber was supplied to a Chinese carpenter, and that Kwong Chung and Co., were not responsible for it, although it was used on their building. Judgment was rendered for Croft & Angus with all costs.

Runaway.

A dog cart drawn by a pony, in which were seated Mrs. Summers and two children, of Cedar Hill, ran away on Douglas street, about two o'clock this afternoon. In the pony's flight Mrs. Summers was thrown from the cart and badly shaken up. At a point near the city weighing machine, the cart struck a post and eventually came to grief under the verandah of the Commercial Hotel, where the pony fell, cutting its leg. The two children remained in the bottom of the cart the whole time and luckily escaped injury.
